

Tuesday Afternoon

Dear Moms:

Here we are in the midst of a cold rainy, damp "Northeaster" - which will probably last 3 days, as they usually do. Had to get out a suit and some stockings to wear today as I nearly froze yesterday.

Friday when I left work we had a very bad downpour and all the subways were flooded. I got home all right but lots of people took 2 hours at it. Harriet had to walk part way home and got soaked. We ate supper at home, although we had planned to eat out. Then we took a cab up to the theater. It is a very good play, altho a bit "riské". Margaret Sullivan, who used to play the lead, was in the audience and we got a good look at her.

Saturday morning just lounged around. Mrs. Q. went with me while I did a bit of shopping. We had lunch at home and then Hat & her mother left shortly after 2 for Nyack, NY, where they have relatives. They spent the night there and got back Sunday evening. Yesterday morning Hat took Mrs. Q. to Macy's and Wanamakers. Mrs. Q. took me to supper at the Waverly Inn (Hat had to work), and after she & I walked down Greenwich Ave. & looked in antique shops. This morning they were going to look around Radio City and Mrs. Q. goes home this noon on a 1 or 2 o'clock train. She is a very nice woman and I hope, and think she had a nice time.

Sat. afternoon after Work Fred came in to look over his clothes. He took a nap, while I read, and then he had a date, altho he came back to the apartment to sleep. I went to the movies alone at 5:30. Saw "Affairs of Susan", very good. Then I came home, had supper alone, and so to bed.

We got up shortly after 10 Sunday morning. Fred got up before I did! Had breakfast. It was nice having him. We just launged around. I did a bit of washing! (22 socks, plus undies!) Pam came down later in the afternoon and he took both of us to dinner and to the movies.

I am sorry I got a bit mixed up and told you he was coming home for the weekend, but I really thought from what he told me last Thursday night that he was. Anyhow, that is over now.

So far, Fred's new job has worked out apparently quite well and he is very happy about it -- and in it, so please continue to withhold any comments you may have on the situation. It may be something real nice for him. Only time will tell.

~~It is a very nice job and I am sure he will leave this time.~~

All my love

Dear Mom - Please excuse the censored letter. But on reading it over, I thought I had better cut out something, as it involved Ted & I got into enough trouble last week writing about him, so that I had better keep my big feet out of anything that had to do with him & let him run his own affairs.

I forgot to say I was planning to come home this weekend, if that is all right with you & will come up on the usual 6:10 unless you hear to the contrary.

Love,
Julia
